

Linked-grads

About 55% of workers across America are unsatisfied with their current job. Fresh graduates are likely to be one of the 55% and choose a path that is not suitable for them and that would be due to the lack of knowledge and experience in college, we can prevent that from happening!

We launched Linked-grads, a platform that targets helping fresh graduates find their dream job. Here we inspire our users to find jobs of their true interests by providing a test about their skills at first, then after answering a page of only relevant job recommendations will show up based on the answers. And of course matches the users' educational status that will be added by them manually. Therefore prevent new graduates from getting jobs they are not satisfied with.

App Downloads

As shown in the data above, our results are 15K downloads and counting in a short span of 35 days with more than 3000 graduates/students using our platform to reach their desired goal.

We are going to expand our platform even more by collaborating with global universities, adding more languages to the app, comping app with new subscriptions plans with advanced features based on customer reviews.

Buthainah Bin Hadher,
On behalf all the members of our team